

HEATHER JAMES FINE ART'S ATTENTION TO DETAIL

HIGHLIGHTS INTERNATIONAL WOMEN ARTISTS THROUGH AUGUST

ATTENTION TO DETAIL

(Palm Desert, CA)—Heather James Fine Art (HJFA) showcases international women artists in the exhibition Attention to Detail through August.

Attention to Detail features a selection of international female artists creating progressive work with innovative materials, style components, or meticulous details harkening back to traditional women's art forms. New York artist Alyssa Pheobus incorporates cross-stitched patterns and song lyrics into modern and simplified tapestries, creating poignant expressions of the feminine versus the feminist. Egyptian-born Sherin Guirguis uses the process of cutting to create Arabic patterns in sculpture and paintings. Latina Maria E. Pineres' delicate woven portraits of iconic imagery from the political, cultural and homoerotic worlds all come daintily stitched onto their loom-like foundations which become crucial to the piece. German-born Marietta Hoferer's use of transparent and fibrous miniscule pieces of tape to create all white linear patterns, strata and minor topographies become stunning catchers of light, shadow and surprise. San Francisco artist

Colleen Sanders' works on paper consist of exquisitely detailed tresses and unlikely ingredients that formulate containers for pictures that arise within the negative space, often referring to spiritual and religious icons. Finally, Indian artist Sheba Chhachhi uses the moving light box medium as a way to juxtapose her culture with the world at large pairing elements from Indian miniature paintings with jarring, sometimes political American imagery.
