PROVENANCE:

Private Collection, Santa Barbara, California

Lamb was active in the early Twentieth Century and worked in various media. Lamb's landscapes are desirable because of their simplicity and success in capturing the ephemeral moment. Lamb has paintings in several important private collections across the United States.

The information and material herein represents Gallery's best efforts and understanding of the current history and scholarship with respect to the provenance of the Work(s) of Art described and is not part of any warranty.
